LLOVE THOSE LLAMAS! The llama display drew a constant audience of youngsters and adults who petted the fluffy-coated creatures and watched as their fiber was carded and spun into yarn in this intriguing, llama-to-knitwear display.

Trade fair a big success

Elk Point's first Trade Fair in five years brought huge crowds to the A. G. Ross Arena this past weekend, to tour a good variety of indoor and outdoor exhibits, enjoy fashion shows and entertainment, and sample the exotic taste of everything from saskatoon cheesecake to rhea jerky. Over sixty exhibitors took part in the fair, bringing everthing from huge tractors to scented candles to custom golf clubs to show the public.

One of the highlights of the show was a display of llamas, who were part of the "Overall Attractive Booth" award winning exhibit by Excell Llamas. Along with the fuzzy fellows in their very handsome wooden pen came a crew of llama enthusiasts who combed their fiber, carded it and spun it into wool as a fascinated procession of fairgoers looked on. Sweaters, socks, mittens and other items created from llama yarn were also on display and available for purchase.

Another booth near at hand held a message of spring. Maryann Kozicky of Meadowview Garden Centre decked her booth with a stunning array of thriving greenery and blooms to win the Best Garden/Landscape booth award.

All the fun of summer awaited visitors at the Hillside Power Merchants display, with their array of leisure products all set to go. Their large booth won the Best Sports/Leisure award.

Another eye-catcher near the arena entrance was that of Kudu Enterprises, which featured oilfield pumps and won the Best Oilfield Display category. United Carpet won the Best Home Booth designation, while Little Implements won the Best Agriculture Booth ribbon.

Best booths in the General Category were Blair's Army Surplus, which was decked out in olive drab and camouflage netting, and the sleek Servus Credit Union display, who tied for the honor.

Fashion shows on all three days featured models of all ages, with the younger set displaying their bright new spring and summer finery from Please Mum and Kids Only, and the ladies taking to the ramp in the latest styles from Option L.

Heinsburg's Babe Sharkey, Grace Meger and Henry Botting provided good down-home country music on Saturday afternoon, while vocalists from Route 66 entertained that evening. Those who came to the fair Sunday morning were privileged to enjoy a preview of this coming weekend's concert by the very talented Elk Point Ukrainian Dance Club.

The younger set were a big part of the weekend, with a gigantic air-filled dinosaur

Council reducing to five members

Special meeting on April 22

Elk Point Town Council has given first reading to a bylaw which would permit them to reduce the number of council members from seven to five. The public is being given the opportunity to object in writing or by appearing at a special meeting scheduled for 7:00 p.m. on Wednesday, April 22, at which time Council proposed to pass the bylaw.

Council is currently down to five members, following the resignations earlier this year of Dave Yake and Louis Verhagen, and no nominations were received when a by-election was proposed to fill the vacancies.

Council met April 14 with a delegation from F. G. Miller High School, who reported on the upcoming Wellness Day, April 30. The event features volunteer speakers from a wide cross section of the community and provides activities which will enhance the minds and bodies of the participants, which include FGM and Heinsburg High School students from grades 7 through 9, and grade 6 students from Elk Point Elementary School. The event is the grand finale of Wellness Month, which started April 1 with a presentation entitled "Light the Torch." Council agreed to support the event with a $100 contribution toward the noon lunch which is part of the day.

Town Auditor Barb McCarthy was on hand at the meeting to present the 1997 financial statement, which she noted had changed substantially in format from statements of previous years. She commended staff and Council on a good job in handling the Town's finances, and went through the statement page by page, noting increases in reserves, revenues and operating expenditures but a decrease in capital expenditures. Some $97,000 in long term debt was paid down during the year, and the Town has a $26,000 increase in its overall financial position. Ms McCarthy said that overall, things are "really running smoothly," and the Town staff is willing to learn.

Mayor Ed Buck noted that school taxes will increase this year, but that increased assessment due to recent new construction may cover this.

Prayer Breakfast to focus on vision for the new millennium

Elk Point Chamber of Commerce is currently finalizing plans for their May 23 Community Prayer Breakfast, which has as its theme, "A Vision of Ideal Conditions in this Community in the New Millennium."

The program for the Saturday morning event includes prayers and scripture readings by representatives of four local churches, gospel hymns by a church choir, and visions for the new millennium by a panel of speakers. Deanna Easthope will speak on volunteers, associations and service organizations, Doug Bassett on sports and recreation, Pastor Jim MacLellan on churches, Alvina Schuhmacher on seniors' housing, Mayor Ed Buck on Town government, Reeve Ray Danyluk on County government, Barb Kaufman or her alternate on health services, Jim Hawkins on education and further education, Sgt. Peter Sherstan on law and security, and Vicki Brooker on tourism, commerce and industry. Chamber President John Yettaw will give closing comments. Sid Holthe, who heads the organizing committee for the event, will serve as Master of Ceremonies.

Breakfast will focus on vision

The Chamber is also getting ready for their upcoming Community Clean-Up Day, on Wednesday, May 6. A residential cleanup date will be set by Town Manager Myron Goyan and the Public Works department, for a one day pickup of extra garbage resulting from yard, garden and household spring cleaning. Highway 41 cleanup in this area has not yet been scheduled, as no volunteer group has yet come forward to take on the big task of cleaning 10 miles of highway.

Application will be made for an Action for Health grant from the Lakeland Regional Health Authority, to construct benches in the downtown area, which would provide a rest area for seniors and others out enjoying the summer weather.

The Chamber had a good crowd on hand to hear guest speaker Bryon Pearman's presentation on Chamber Group Insurance, which is available for businesses as small as one employee, who are members of a Chamber. The flexible plan, which involves 15,000 firms nation-wide, offers life insurance, short and long term disability insurance, health and dental plans, and overhead protection plans.

FACTS ABOUT
Alberta's Human Rights Laws
AND THE VRIEND DECISION.

IT'S ABOUT THE RIGHT TO BE HEARD.

On April 2, 1998, the Supreme Court of Canada read sexual orientation into Alberta's human rights legislation.

This means that Albertans can now lodge complaints with the Human Rights and Citizenship Commission if they believe they have been discriminated against because of their sexual orientation. This gives all Albertans the right to lodge a complaint on the ground of sexual orientation, just as they now have the right to lodge a complaint on the other protected grounds such as race, religious beliefs and gender. Many Albertans have questions about the court's decision. Here are some of the most common questions, along with the answers.

Q. WHAT DOES THIS DECISION MEAN TO ALBERTANS?

A. It means that Albertans cannot be discriminated against on the basis of sexual orientation in these areas:

- publications, signs and notices;
- goods, services, facilities and accommodations that are normally available to the public, such as stores and nightclubs;
- rental accommodation;
- employment practices, such as hiring, firing and conditions of employment;
- employment applications or advertisements; and
- membership in trade unions or professional associations.

This means that people cannot be refused rental accommodation, service in a restaurant, or employment simply because of their sexual orientation. However, landlords may refuse to rent accomodation to individuals with poor credit records or poor tenancy references, regardless of their sexual orientation. Similarly, restaurants may refuse to serve individuals who are not behaving appropriately, and employers may refuse to hire unqualified applicants, regardless of their sexual orientation.

Q. CAN THERE BE EXCEPTIONS TO THIS RULING DUE TO OTHER FACTORS SUCH AS RELIGIOUS BELIEFS?

A. YES. In some cases, rights can be limited if the limits are reasonable and justifiable in the circumstances.

For example, in 1995 the Supreme Court of Canada ruled in the "Egan" case that although denying pension benefits to same-sex couples was discriminatory, it was still reasonable in this case. In other cases, the courts have allowed discrimination in employment because of religious beliefs.

In Alberta, exceptions like this are provided for in Section 11.1 of the Human Rights, Citizenship and Multiculturalism Act, which states that "A contravention of this Act shall be deemed not to have occurred if the person who is alleged to have contravened the Act shows that the alleged contravention was reasonable and justifiable in the circumstances."

Q. WILL ALBERTA SCHOOLS NOW BE OBLIGED TO INCLUDE GAY SEX EDUCATION IN SCHOOL CURRICULUM?

A. NO. School curriculum is set by Alberta Education and individual school boards, not by the Human Rights, Citizenship and Multiculturalism Act.

Q. DOES THE COURT'S DECISION AFFECT FAMILY LAWS IN ALBERTA?

A. NO. The Supreme Court's ruling on sexual orientation only applies to Alberta's Human Rights, Citizenship and Multiculturalism Act. It does not change existing laws with regard to family issues such as same-sex marriages and adoption.

Sexual orientation has been part of human rights legislation in many provinces for a number of years and nowhere in Canada have same-sex marriages been allowed.

Volunteer Appreciation Week — April 19 to 25

By Deanna Easthope
FCSS Director

A great big thank you to all our volunteers! Our community would not be the same without you! Most of the time, we try to say thank you as you complete your volunteer task, but sometimes we missed telling you how much we appreciate what you did. So I am glad there is a special week set aside at which time we can all say thank you.

There is a saying: "We make a living by what we get — we make a life by what we give." As we give, we are "the volunteers" that are making a life for ourselves and others.

Volunteering takes time and it involves kindness. There is a story told about a young man who after two years of marriage, no longer saw his wife as interesting, fun, or attractive. In his mind he regarded her as a sloppy housekeeper, overweight, and a woman with a fault-finding personality. He sought out a divorce attorney, who gave him some advice. The divorce attorney said, "If you really want to get even with your wife, start treating her like a queen! Do everything in your power to serve her, please her, and make her feel special. Then, after a couple of months of this royal treatment, pack your bags and leave. That way you'll disappoint her as much as she has disappointed you." So the young man took the lawyer's advice — in fact he picked up a dozen roses. Then he helped his wife with the dinner dishes, brought her breakfast in bed and began complimenting her on her clothes, cooking and housekeeping. He treated her to an out-of-town trip. After three months, the attorney called and said, "Well, I have the divorce papers ready for you to sign. In a matter of minutes, you can be a happy bachelor." The young man said, "Are you crazy? My wife has made so many changes. I wouldn't think of divorcing her now." ... I like that story. To me that story can also apply to volunteers. Volunteers do things in a kind way and by their acts they not only affect the lives of the people they do things for, they also affect their own lives.

To all the leaders and members of clubs and organization — like the Agricultural Society, Agricultural Fair Board, Fairgrounds Committee, Arena Operating Committee, Men's Basketball, Canada Day Committee, Chamber of Commerce, Choral Society, Community Advisory Policing Committee, Curling Club, Elementary School Council, Elks Lodge No. 460, Families for Alberta's Children Today, FCSS Board, Figure Skating Club, First Night Committe, 4-H Multi Club, 4-H Light Horse Club, F. G. Miller Parent Advisory Council, Friends of the Forts Society, Friends of the Library, Further Education Council, Grief Support Group, Historical Society, Interagency, Interagency Health Committee, Library Board, Lioness Club, Lions Club, Minor Ball, Minor Hockey, Palliative Care Volunteers, Pioneer Circle Society, Red Cross, Royal Purple, Scouts, Soccer Club, Tennis Club, Ukrainian Dance Club, Volunteer Firefighters and others whom I may have missed — we all say thank you for all your volunteering acts of kindness. You are appreciated.

EARTH DAY

Regulatory Options for Livestock Operations
Open Houses

Open Houses to gather feedback on the discussion paper, Regulatory Options for Livestock Operations, are planned throughout the province during April and May. All stakeholders (interested public, livestock producers, neighbors, municipal leaders) are welcome to attend. At the open house you'll find copies of the discussion paper and questionnaire, displays, resource people and additional information. There will be opportunities to discuss options, ask questions and provide feedback.

The discussion paper is now available at Alberta Agriculture, Food and Rural Development's district offices and your municipal office. The purpose of the discussion paper is to get stakeholder input into:

- a system that is environmentally sustainable, protects human health and the rights of individuals, and supports a competitive livestock industry
- current and proposed regulations and policies dealing with livestock operations
- the role of provincial and municipal governments in regulating the industry

Meeting dates and locations:

Learning how to cope
makes health happen

Every now and again, life throws you a curve ball. How well you deal with stress at home and at work is important to your health. Some times a quick walk around the block or a few deep breaths can be the best thing for you. The same holds true for children. Take a few minutes to help your kids deal with their frustrations. It will help them learn important coping skills for the future.

The Pelechs in Paris — Part I

By Sherry Pelech
World Traveler

We left Edmonton on March 19, amidst cloud and snow, and feeling plenty smug. "Ah, springtime in Paris! What care we for the ravages of winter!" The clouds cleared enough to give us a good view of Lake Winnipeg and Lake Superior then closed in again. We landed in Toronto in rain, grateful to be off the plane. There were perhaps 100 people on the plane and only two bathrooms — and one was out of order. There was a good half hour wait for the biffy, standing nonchalantly in the aisle pretending your back teeth weren't floating. Not only that but there appeared to be a mini baby-boom happening on the plane and our flight was full of newborn babies and their bemused looking parents who walked them up and down, up and down, up and down the aisles — adding even more entertainment to the bathroom lineup.

The Toronto Airport, which is roughly the size of Prince Edward Island, is an experience all its own. We naively believed that because, according to our airline tickets, we arrived at Terminal 2 and we departed from Terminal 2 that our arrival and departure gates were in the same province. The only good thing about our long trek from gate 19 to gate 111 was that we were not encumbered with luggage. (We had sent that off into the unknown in Edmonton with a few mystical symbols and incantations in the hopes that it would arrived in Paris at more or less the same time we did.) I strongly believe that we should get a cut on the price of our airline tickets because it appears we walked at least halfway to France. We did partly clear up one of life's unsolved mysteries, though. You know all those socks that are always going missing from the dryer? Well, they're lying on the floor of the Toronto Airport. Today, Toronto, tomorrow, who knows, the world, maybe.

The flight from Toronto to Paris was uneventful. Very, very uneventful. And looooooong! Having learned our lesson about the passenger-to-bathroom ratio on the Edmonton plane, we had given up all liquids except a bit of water. But we made many trips to the bathroom anyway just to get some circulation going in our buttocks. When you fly all night, sleeping might be an option for some people. But I am of the ilk that feels obliged to stay alert and with sheer willpower help keep the plane in the air.

AVENUE VICTOR HUGO as seen from Francois and Alexa's balcony.

Especially over the ocean. It was a long night.

We arrived in Paris about 10:15 a.m. Friday, March 20. The first day of spring and a glorious sunny day. Our friends Francois and Alexa were there to meet us and after claiming our bags, which had amazingly arrived with us, and going through customs, we ventured forth and discovered — Paris traffic! Parisians hurtle their little cars down the road with great enthusiasm, despite the fact that there seems to be little or no land designation, smoking with one hand, holding their cell phone with another and talking with the other two. I believe that it isn't really against the law to run down pedestrians. In fact it may even be encouraged. (Pedestrian traffic is another story. More about that later.) Paris is a city of traffic circles. In fact if you look at a map you will see that the city is actually one big traffic circle. And, unlike in Canada where you have to yield to traffic trying to exit the circle, in Paris it is the cars entering the circle who have the right of way. Picture a swirling cosmos, continually rotating, sucking vehicles in as it goes around and around, growing ever larger as, like a black hole, nothing

Young Offenders forum coming to Lloydminster

MANNVILLE — Residents of northeastern Alberta will soon have a chance to have their say on the controversial Young Offenders Act.

A major town hall meeting, scheduled for April 23 in Lloydminster, will bring together experts, politicians and concerned citizens to discuss the Act and its implications for Canadians.

"Should it be replaced with measures that hold young criminals accountable for their actions, or does it have a place in our justice system?" Lakeland MP Leon Benoit, one of the co-hosts of the meeting, said today.

"That's what we want our constituents to think about, and be ready to discuss at this important event."

Benoit, who will share chairman's duties with Battleford-Lloydminster MP Gerry Ritz, noted that the town hall will not be a partisan political meeting.

"We have invited speakers from a variety of political parties and organizations to sit on our panel," he said. "Those we have invited include Justice Minister Anne McLellan, Opposition Justice Critic Jack Ramsay, Senator Nick Taylor, Alberta Opposition Justice Critic Sue Olson and MLA Steve West. We also hope to have a representative of the RCMP and a local high school student share their perspectives on the Act."

While organizers haven't yet received confirmation from all invited guests, Benoit said he is confident the cross-section of panelists will make for a spirited and interesting discussion.

"And we really want to welcome anyone who is interested to come to the meeting and make their views known. The Young Offenders Act impacts all Canadians in a very personal way. It's time they had a chance to join in the debate."

The meeting takes place at 7:30 p.m. on April 23 at the Lloydminster Centennial Civic Centre Auditorium, 5011-49 Avenue. For more information, feel free to call the Lakeland constituency office at 1-800-463-1194.

The teens weren't forgotten either — they had an opportunity to try out their muscles on the St. Paul Lions Football Club's practice equipment.

Many prize draws were made during the show, but Sunday afternoon brought the major draws. Al Hemingway of Kitscoty won the Golf Membership donated by the Elk Point Golf and Country Club, Kevin Houlihan of Bonnyville took home the wood patio set donated by Jorvik, and a very fortunate Germaine Dallaire of Elk Point won the major prize of a beautiful patio set valued at near $1000.

Pan Canadian relocating 20 percent of employees

John Zahary of Pan Canadian Petroleum announced last week that approximately 20 percent of the employees from Pan Canadian's Elk Point office will be relocated due to the upcoming move of the district office to Lloydminster. Zahary met with the Elk Point staff during the week of March 30 and spoke with the individuals implicated in the relocation.

The remaining 80 percent of employees will remain in Elk Point to operate Pan Canadian's wells in the area.

Fun and Furry horse show coming up this weekend

This isn't a shaggy dog story, but there could be a furry horse story this weekend as riders bring in their winter-coated friends to the annual Fun and Furry Horse Show, Sunday at the Elk Point Fairgrounds Arena.

The day starts with post entries at 9 a.m., and will feature a full range of classes for both senior and junior competitors. Showmanship, English equitation and pleasure, fun jump, pre-green jumper, reining, western equitation, western pleasure, western riding and trail classes will be featured, along with two new classes in walk and trot for ages ten and under and leadline for riders six and under. The day will wind up with barrel racing and pole bending competitions.

Following the show's long-standing tradition, a prize will also be given for the furriest horse in attendance.

Make sure to come on out and watch talented equestrians as they put their horses through their paces.

Bar fight results in injuries, charges

On April 15 at 11:30 p.m., the Elk Point RCMP responded to a fight at the Elk Point Hotel. The altercation, which involved two female patrons, resulted in an Elk Point resident being taken to Elk Point Health Centre where she received treatment for severe lacerations to her face and arm. A broken glass was used as a weapon in this incident. A Fishing Lake woman has been charged with aggravated assault and assault with a weapon and will appear in St. Paul court on May 21.

Tax tips

Dealing with farm losses

By Lisa Martin
H & R Block, St. Paul

If you are involved in the business of farming you probably already know that large variations in income can result from the annual activities of a farming operation. Unfortunately these fluctuations in income are often very difficult to predict and only become obvious when the profit and loss statement is being prepared. One method of stabilizing the income from year to year is the use of the optional inventory adjustment. This provision is only available to farmers and allows you to increase the farm income by adding in inventory, then allows a corresponding claim as an expense the following year. By using the inventory adjustment you can take a farm out of a negative income and yet be claiming ordinary personal amounts and deductions without increasing your tax bill.

If a loss has occurred and the optional inventory adjustments are not used, there are special rules that may restrict the amount of loss that can be claimed. In order to determine how a loss should be treated, you must first determine which category best describes the farming operation.

There are three farm categories that determine the amount of losses that can be claimed. The first category consists of farmers for whom farming is the primary occupation and chief source of income. The second category consists of farmers that farm as a side line business and the major source of income arises from off farm employment. The third group consists of farmers who carry on farming as a hobby or recreational activity. As a hobby farm, losses are not deductible.

If farming is your chief source of income and the center of your work routine then, even through supplement your income from other sources, you may be able to deduct your losses in full. However, if farming is a sideline business, only a portion of the losses that you incurred would be deductible against other sources of income.

This determination should be made each year in which you incur a farming loss. As your circumstances change, the deductibility of the losses can also change.

Dave Cousins named Coach of the Year

By Doug Bassett
Review Sports

Well, another week goes by. Only 24 more weeks until October, you know! The pain of the post-hockey-season syndrome wasn't quite as bad this week, thanks to some hockey meetings with some old hockey buddies who like to talk about old times, and to a good friend Isabel Myshaniuk, who knew how much I was missing the 'Dome and called to give me a booth shift on Friday night. Thanks, Isabel! Friday, Saturday and Sunday the A. G. Ross Arena had about 2000 people through the turnstile at the Trade Fair. The committee should be given a big pat on the back for a job very well organized.

This past week, on Tuesday night, Elk Point Minor Hockey had a general meeting to wind up the season. The biggest item on the agenda was the Coach of the Year award. This year's recipient, I am happy to announce, was none other than Atom Avalanche coach Dave Cousins. Dave, a long time volunteer, is very deserving of this award and should be recognized for his contributions to Elk Point Minor Hockey. First, let me tell you some things about the criteria to win this prestigious award: (1) Showing respect for officials, opponents, parents, and espousing a philosophy of fair play; (2) Demonstrating concern for all-round development of the athlete and guidelines as to responsible conduct beyond the athletic arena; (3) Presenting a positive public image of coaching and the role of the coach; (4) Certified in at least one level of the National Coaching Certification Program; (5) Applying relevant training theory and coaching practice; (6) Demonstrating a proven capacity to improve the team's or athlete's performance. Congratulations, Dave, this is an award that you definitely deserve. Honorable mention should go to Micro Novice coach Mike Metz who had great patience with the youngest group of players and did a wonderful job this year, and to Peewee coach Jim Hawkins who took his Blades to the third round of Provincials, before getting knocked out by Kitscoty. Let's hope all these guys return to coach next season.

This past Saturday afternoon in Vermilion the North East League held their annual meeting. This is the second year of operation for the league and things are going fairly well. After the President gave his report, the Governors gave their reports. They had the usual minor problems and one of them is penalties. Some teams seem to be having a discipline problem in the Peewee, Bantam and Midget levels and had as many as 600 penalty minutes in a 20 game schedule. The league feeling is that each association must set a goal to find quality coaches how will set a good example to ensure control of their players on the ice and clamp down on penalties. I am happy to report that one of our Elk Point teams had this problem.

Another topic of discussion was adding another tier, making four tiers, at the Peewee and Bantam levels. This past season there were 51 teams of Peewees in the North East League, and even though they were re-tiered at Christmas they still had some very lopsided games. Also discussed was the possibility of merging the novice leagues and girls' leagues into the North East League. This will be discussed in greater detail next fall. This was followed by elections of executive and governors. As each town must participate in some capacity in the league, Brian Tucker from Elk Point Minor Hockey Association was voted in as vice-commissioner for the league next season.

Saturday night, of course, the Leafs played the Oilers, and you know the results. Like we say in T.O., there's always next year! The Oilers are set to play against the Avalanche in the first round. It should be a good series with goaltenders like CuJo and Roy.

Today I want to say hello and good luck to a very good friend, who for many years volunteered as Minor Hockey's bingo chairperson, Marshall Moroziuk. Marshall is in the city and will be having surgery tomorrow. Marshall and I have worked together on many hockey and ball teams, starting when our young lads were on the Novice Byers Blues. He is a topnotch guy, and I know things will work out for my old buddy and he'll be back for the midget ball spring training camp next week. I already have him pencilled in to warm up the fielders. No one can hit the ball better than Marshall.

What else is happening this week? Tonight Minor Ball is having registration at the Elementary School from from 5 to 8 p.m. in the Art room. And tomorrow, it's Secretaries' Day.

COACH OF THE YEAR -- Dave Cousins is presented with a handsome certificate by Doug Bassett of Elk Point Minor Hockey. Cousins coached the Atom Avalanche this past season and is a good example of volunteers in action. Congratulations!

MINOR HOCKEY RECEIVES DONATION -- Elk Point Minor Hockey received a generous donation a while back from the Elk Point Lioness Club. Carol Lee presents the much appreciated-cheque to Doug Bassett.

The Pelechs in Paris — Part I & II

can ever escape. No. That's silly. Of course you can escape the traffic circles. Sometimes even the same week you went in.

Streets are often too narrow for one vehicle to pass. This, however, in no way stops two lanes of traffic from squeezing by each other and ducking around two rows of parked cars. Cars sometimes park at the side of the road, sometimes half on the sidewalk, sometimes all the way on the sidewalk. There is interesting variety. We watched in amazement as an elderly gentleman attempted to back into a parking spot about half the size of his car. He backed in firmly, striking the car behind him. He took another run at it and thumped the car again. The parking spot was still half a car-length too small. So he drove calmly off, as though this was normal procedure for him. We noticed that most cars were banged, dented or generally bunged up in some way.

Every once in a while a couple of drivers leap from their cards and with great vigor, discuss the rules of the road. Or they use any extra hand that isn't smoking, holding a phone or talking, to lean on their horns. The idea seems to be that if they just honk their horn loud enough, the guy in front of them will discover a hitherto unseen open traffic lane and get out of their way. We were very surprised to arrive at our hosts' apartment.

Part II

The parking garage is several floors beneath the street. (We were to discover later a great deal of the city is under the city.) Five stories beneath the ground in a cold concrete bunker we were regaled by the twittering of sparrows and wrens. Every level of the garage and the elevator is filled with loud, canned bird chirping at its most annoying. Alexa swears that someday she's going to catch the little S.O.B.s and wring their scrawny little necks.

Alexa and Francois' apartment building is straight out of a movie. A 1940s high class movie, maybe starring Ingrid Bergman. The building is 100 - 150 years old with huge wooden doors that open into a marble entrance lined with stately columns. A second set of big doors open into a hallway that leads you to a wonderful old oak staircase that spirals upward, the wooden stairs covered with the same scarlet, patterned carpet that lines the hallway. There is also an ancient elevator with a wrought iron cage and oak, swinging louver doors. I think Bond. James Bond. Had a fight in an elevator like that, in one of his movies. We were enchanted by the romantic old piece of machinery that looked like it could have had a stamp of approval from Otis himself. But Alexis told us the thing was very temperamental and usually quits on days they have heavy packages. Francois told us a horror story about moving into the apartment on a very hot August day when the elevator quit working. He had to carry a heavy dog carrier — with a large Newfoundland / Labrador mama and two puppies, all liberally covered in doggie doo-doo — up six flights of that lovely, spiral staircase. The romanticism of the place seemed to be lost on him.

The apartment itself is marvelous! Carved and curlicued plaster decorates the doors, walls, windows and ceilings. Everything is larger than life. Rooms, doors and windows. In nearly every room huge windows swing open onto a balcony that winds around two sides of their apartment. If you stand on the balcony and look way to your left, you can just see the Arche de Triomphe at the end of the street. Looking down you can see the stores, cafes and hotels of Avenue Victor Hugo. One morning Francois was standing out on the balcony in his bathrobe when he spotted a Canadian friend just leaving an hotel, a couple of doors down. He yelled down at him to come up for coffee. We told him there was something a little odd about someone in a scarlet robe leaning over a wrought-iron balcony and calling out, "John! Hey, John! Why don't you come on up?"

Alexa went back to work. After showering, Marshel and I felt, if not precisely human, at least related to the species. We had a quick lunch and were introduced to the wonderful cheeses of France. There are approximately 450 different kinds, and no, we didn't try them all. Then Francois took us touring Paris!

I don't know if Paris was ready for the Pelechs but the Pelechs were ready for Paris. We were armed with French/English English/French dictionaries, an electronic translator, maps, brochures and schedules. We acquired a stack of Metro tickets and instructions on how to use them. The French drive their subway trains like they drive their funny little Mr. Bean cars. With an enthusiasm bordering on hysteria! (Note: Need to ask Billie if an entire nation can be hyperactive. They could put Ritalin in the drinking water. Of course that means that just the dogs and pigeons would get it as the rest of France only drinks wine.) Speaking of pigeons, Paris is full of them. That and beggars. I figure that someday the beggars are going to discover that pigeons are edible, thus solving two problems.

Beggars in Paris are not like pan-handlers in Canada. They are professional — licensed and everything. They are not poor or destitute. They dress in marvelously colorful tapestry brocades with yellow, green and red leather shoes and boots and silk scarves and shawls. It is only the young girls and old women who do the begging. And one baby. We were all over Paris, in Lyon and Marseille and it was, I swear, the same baby being shown to people as the beggars begged. They walk through the crowds, rattling a plastic cup with a few coins in it, telling a long, sad story. I learned to say, "Je ne parle pas Francais." Whereupon they switch to "Money? Money? Money?" Whereupon I switch to, "Je ne parle pas Anglais." Pick another language and I'll je ne parle pas that too. These are not poor people. They are well-dressed, well-fed professionals.

What's news at the library?

Spring fever hits us with a vengeance!

By Michele Duczek
Librarian

Spring fever has hit the library with a vengeance this week. Maybe I need a spring break like the kids in school. Instead of talking about recent acquisitions (I don't have that many to talk about anyway) I give you a top ten list in keeping with the giddiness of the season:

Top Ten Reasons Why You Should Visit the Library at This Time of Year

10. The parking lot is no longer icy.

9. We have a good collection of gardening books ranging from landscape design to what to do when your vegetable garden overproduces.

8. There have been a number of additions to our collection over the winter.

7. The Spring/Summer best-sellers are starting to come in. We are expecting the latest from Jeffrey Archer, Tom Clancy, Mary Higgins Clark, Catherine Cookson, Patricia Cornwell, Sue Grafton, Jack Higgins, Faye Kellerman, W.P. Kinsella, Dean Koontz, Belva Plain and Danielle Steel.

6. We're getting ready for the Summer Reading Program and we can always use input from the public. This year's theme is sports.

5. We have a bike stand so you can ride your bikes.

4. The frog display will soon be returning to its owner so you only have a week or two more to get a look at it.

3. April 23 is Canada Book Day. Give one. Get one. Read one.

2. We have received a lot of donations over the winter and a good number of them have made it into the collection.

And the number one reason to visit the library at this time of year:

Now that it has dried up, I won;t be telling you to take off your wet and muddy shoes the minute you walk in the door. (I'll say "Hi" instead).

Next week I hope to have a new batch of new arrivals, including the latest in our juvenile series.

LIBRARY CALENDAR:

Fridays, 10:30 a.m. — Storytime. Everyone welcome.

Friday, May 1 — No Storytime. Michele (and the editor!!!) gone to Jasper.

Pioneer Circle bingo

April 13, 1998

Marge Heffernan $60, Margaret Pipe $30, Mildred Boyko $40, Rose Kozicky $30, Peggy Smereka $30, Lynne Boyko $30, Stella Lorenson $40, Leona Trottier $10, Darcy Riley $60, Mildred Boyko $30, Debbie Orr $30, Ivy Ference $30, Alf Fakeley $30, Viola Yarmuch $17, Mary Prusak $43, Leona Trottier $25, Ken Stanley $50, Helen Benner $61, Mary Diesel $20, Irene Janvier $40, Jean Russell $20.

Volunteers cause a stir

Celebrating with communities across Alberta and the country, Volunteer Alberta will celebrate the spirit and dedication to volunteerism during Volunteer Week, April 19 to 25.

Annually, this special week is set aside to thank and honor the people who donate time and energy to their fellow citizens and to the causes they believe in. Volunteer Week is also meant to increase public awareness of the vital contribution that volunteers make to our communities and our society as a whole.

Our Albertan volunteers maintain parks and playgrounds, sponsor festivals and agricultural exhibitions. They are Girl Guide, Cadet and 4-H Club leaders. Volunteers deliver meals, provide support for victims of sexual assault and shovel the sidewalks of elderly neighbors.

Volunteer Alberta and the Wild Rose Foundation salute all the hardworking volunteers who are the strength that builds the unique fabric of our great province. This year, we are pleased to announce that over 92 communities will celebrate and recognize their own volunteers through various Volunteer Week events.

For more information on volunteerism and Volunteer Week activities in your community, contact Volunteer Alberta at (403)231-1449.

Council plans reduction to five

Council has appointed Ms McCarthy as auditor for the coming year.

The Town is preparing for the new millennium with the purchase of a new computer system, which replaces an older system which is too small and rapidly becoming obsolete. The new system includes in its $46,866 price tag, training sessions for the employees who will be operating it.

Training workshops regarding the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act are also upcoming. That act comes into effect in October 1999.

Council agreed to purchase a new Kubota mower tractor, with the unit it replaces to be located at the recreation land for use at that site. Sewage disposal for the ball diamond concession was discussed.

Discounted water rates will once again be in effect for the months of May through August, 1998.

John Kulag has been appointed to fill a vacancy on the FCSS Board.

Council discussed the inspection services available for building projects, and agreed that all three inspection services may operate here, but that someone undertaking a project must get all of their permits and inspections from the same firm. The Mayor also stipulated that utility hookups must be inspected prior to backfilling of trenches.

Two members of Council will be attending a workshop in Bonnyville April 30 regarding "Local Prosperity in the New Economy."

NATURAL HEALING

NATURES WAY OF CURING AND PREVENTING DISEASES ACCORDING TO THE INDIANS

Dedicated to my grandmother who used this book second to the bible in raising her twelve children. This book contains a wealth of knowledge in the field of curing and healing pretty much any health situation naturally instead of synthetically. This book has remedies for things like cancer, bad vision, cholera, ulcers, tumors, gout, weak bowels, stiff joints and so much more that you will just have to see the book. I would like to share this knowledge with the world, that is why I am going to give out a free suncatcher made out of beautiful stained glass; these suncatchers sell for $14.95 or more out in the market place. So if you buy the book for $11.95 + $1.10 for S+H that would be like getting the book for free. If you are not 100% satisfied just send it back for a full refund. I hope that everyone enjoys this book and finds it as helpful a tool as we have. Thank you for taking the time to read this. Live long be healthy, be happy, obtain this important knowledge.
